

Call for Papers for the Journal of

STRATEGIC STUDIES ON ENERGY ECONOMICS

The international journal of Strategic Studies on Energy Economics (SSEE) is concerned to develop all subject related to energy economics field. The topics include:

- Conversion and employing energy
- Trade platform for energy products and goods
- Monitoring and taxation prediction
- Environment and weather
- Global trade rules
- Consequences of energy provision
- Energy Policy
- Energy Strategy
- Environmental issues

Mentioned studies may cover international, local, internal, or regional issues, which have more regulatory importance and are followed by international institutions, states, public and private organizations, national societies and private institutions. You are invited to submit your original research papers to this journal through journal registration and submission system (<http://ssee.uk.ac.ir>).

The submissions should be made rigorously and appropriately, including but not limited to research, surveys, econometrics, decomposition, simulation models, equilibrium models, optimization models, and analytical models in Word format. The contributions will pre-reviewed by our editor-in-chief and the assistant editor. Two or more positive review reports are needed for an article to be invited for a revise-and-resubmit. Should you have any further inquiries, please contact us through: ssee@uk.ac.ir

Zeinolabedin Sadeghi
Editor-in-Chief

Strategic Studies on Energy Economic (SSEE)

Iranian Association for Energy Economics

Shahid Bahonar
University of Kerman